REQUIREMENTS FOR AN ASSOCIATE OF APPLIED SCIENCE IN NURSING DEGREE

The Associate of Applied Science in Nursing degree qualifies the graduate to sit for the National Council Licensing Examination in Nursing at the RN level. When the graduate successfully passes the examination, the nursing graduate can be licensed as a Registered Nurse. RNs are employed in a variety of settings, including hospitals, clinics, surgical centers, insurance companies, rehabilitation facilities, resorts, cruise ships, nursing homes, the military and community and public health agencies. Many go on to universities and colleges to earn a bachelor of science in nursing degree (BSN) and master of science in nursing degree (MSN) or nurse practitioner (NP).

Nursing Program Requirements:

- Students may not enroll in nursing (NUR) courses unless they have been accepted into the nursing program by the Assistant Dean of Nursing and Allied Health.
- Students accepted into the nursing program must receive a grade of 2.0 or better in each required course taken in the nursing curriculum if they are to progress.
- Students who receive final grades of less than 2.0 in a course will not be allowed to progress until they have made up their deficiencies. This will be accomplished by repeating the course involved and achieving at least a 2.0 final grade in the repeated course. Students who receive final grades of less than 2.0 more than once during their nursing education will be dismissed from the program. Any student who leaves the program for any reason is not guaranteed readmission.
- Students seeking re-admission to the program must do so within a year.
