

Assessment Academy – Relevance Survey Faculty Survey – Fall 2013

Dear Faculty – the members of the Assessment Academy are interested in your feedback regarding the real world relevance of our courses\ content. The survey is anonymous, so your honest and thoughtful feedback is much appreciated. The surveys can be found in your mailbox (paper-based). The surveys are due by Friday, November 11th. When you complete the survey, please submit a 3x5 card with your name on it to be entered into a drawing for a chance to win a new sweatshirt from the Oaks Store! Both the paper-based surveys and the 3x5 cards can be returned to the box at the front reception desk. THANK YOU!!

Definition: For the purpose of this survey please consider the term ‘real world use’ to be defined as:

- applies directly to life management skills (such as banking, emotional stability, parenting, etc...) or applies directly to career paths (such as education, accounting, nursing, etc...).

1 - Please rate the five statements below using the following scale:

SA=Strongly Agree, A=Agree, D=Disagree, SD=Strongly Disagree

Statement	SA	A	D	SD	Comment
I believe the courses currently offered at Glen Oaks have a lot of real world use.
Glen Oaks needs to offer more courses that are directly related to student career paths.
(need one more question)
A student’s previous experience(s) can affect the relevance of course content to real world use.
An instructor’s previous experience(s) can affect the relevance of course content to real world use.

2 – Please indicate what % of the courses you teach (in an academic year) apply to each of the following statements.

a – The content of the course is directly related to real world use. _____%

b – The content of the course is not directly related to real world use, but the underlying skill set is. _____% c – Neither the content nor the underlying skill set of the course is related to real world use. _____%

3 – How do you ensure that your lectures\content presentations relate to real world use?

4 – How do you ensure that your assignments relate to real world use?
